“Honoring the Past and Looking at the Future through a New Lens”

Michelle Troseth, MSN, RN, FNAP, FAAN
Tracy Christopherson, PhD-c, MS, BAS, RRT

Michelle Troseth is the immediate past president of the National Academies of Practice (NAP) representing 14 different health professions to advance interprofessional care in the United States. She is a fellow in the American Academy of Nursing. Tracy Christopherson is an advocate for interprofessional collaborative practice and has mentored/coached healthcare leaders across North America to develop and sustain interprofessional collaborative practice work environments. She is a doctoral candidate in Interprofessional Healthcare Studies at Rosalind Franklin University of Medicine and Science in North Chicago, Illinois.

Their 30-year partnership led them to become co-founders of MissingLogic, a coaching and consulting company dedicated to helping healthcare leaders combat burnout and transform from the inside out by creating healthy healing work cultures. They are co-hosts of Healthcare’s MissingLogic Podcast, which ranks 38 in the top 55 healthcare leadership podcasts.

In addition to working with healthcare organizations, Michelle and Tracy developed the Dynamic Balance Effect™ Framework to help healthcare leaders experience joy, live with intention and make a difference at work and at home. They coach healthcare leaders through their numerous group-coaching programs.

We invite you to join the keynote presentation for our College of Allied Health
50th Anniversary Celebration!

Our interprofessional presenters will inspire you with how resilience can be gained during this time by honoring the past, celebrating today and looking at the future with a new lens. During the presentation, you will learn a new way of looking at the challenges of today and gain a sense of hope for the future.
